This sweeping reproach cast upon the members of the clerical profession in this country was ably and magnanimously met and refried. The culcy um Mr Webster passed up on the character of their services, and the exalted moral and religious influence they controlled to the country, not limited to professedly religious institutions and services, was as honorable to him, as the vindication was admirable and just to them. Mr Girard's motives were contended to have been to divest his institution from all religious sectarianism, but the manner he had proposed to do it was clearly proved to es of sectarianism, but he had laid the axe at next at four o'clock, afternoon, the root of Christianity itself. He traced the grand principles of Girard's moral system of instruction to Paine's 'Age of Reason' and Volney's 'Views of Religion." He showed most conclusively the inevitable tendency of these principles to be the undermining of the fabric gion. He likewise shewed that there could ence the mind of Mr Girard in establishing this ence the mind of Mr Girard in establishing this institution; for, in my opinion, he proved him to have lived as he died, without the influence of religion—without God in the world—therefore the distribution of the proprietor of the Hotel in question: where this grand, nay, vital principle was wantmites, by way of exhibiting the true principle of have had. charity, was touching and affecting in the extreme. DR. BANNING'S LACE.

PHE Undersigned has become the proprieter of the patent right for the sale of this valuable in ment in the counties of Chittenden, Franklin To those who have not had an opportunity to hear the inventor explain the principles upon which this invaluable supporter is offered for alleviation of misery and disease, it may be necessary to state that he assigned to other and far deflerent causes, as well as those in which such support has been admitted to be essential, and he claims to have di-covered, in the PA-TENT LACE, an instrument far superior to any which has yet been presented. Its completion has cost him years of thought and labor and thousands of dollars of expense, by reason of numerous experiments he was compelled to make before he could bring it to its present state of perfection.

Dr. Banning has lectured in many of the principal towns in this and the adjaining States, and experience has in jumperable instances elective depondents.

that in immumerable instances clearly demonstrated the truth of his theory and the utility of his Lace, by removing from beds of languishing and sickness, hundreds of persons laboring under chronic diseases which hall previously defied the utmost power of the healing In the views of Dr. Banning the undersigned fully concurs, and so completely convinced is he that they need only to be understood to receive general acqui-scence, that he has at great expense become the proprietor of the patent right for the Counties above na-med,—and he is happy to state that he has made ar-rangements which will enable him to answer all or-ders for the instruments at short notice.

The undersigned deems it proper further to state that he has been in the use of these instruments in his practice for more than three months, and that during that time he has been called to apply them in nume rous cases of female weakness, and other kindred dis-eases, and has uniformly found them productive of he wonderful results attributed to them by the invertor.

JOHN W. EMERY, M. D. Essex, Feb'y. 7th, 1844. From the Claremont Engle.

Claremont, Lagte.

Claremont, Dec. 6, 1843.

Ma. Wanga:—I think much of Dr. Banning's labors among us. They have done good. They have waked up the public mind to think on the subject of health. And, until some better reasons are given for the "erect posture" which he so much urges us to maintain, and which we have always been told was essential, I am satisfied with those set forth by him. He leaves us with the warmest affections of gratitude burning in the bosoms of those whom his visit will cost the most in a pecuniary point of view. For he cost the most in a pecuniary point of view. For he has afferded them relief which they have sought in vain before. And as the support which his Lace gives, a acknowledged by all, to be valuable, in many cases, his coming among us is going to give a direction to the enquiries of many, hereafter, in the efforts to assertian the assertance of the efforts to assertian the assertance. ertain the nature of their diseases and the appropriationedy. And while he does not intimate that h system is to supersede the use of medicine, I think he makes it clear, that medicine is sometimes resorted to, where the support and experience he recommends, are all that is wanting. His Lace is costly, it is true, and the support it is said may be furnished cheaper. Very well. Let it be furnished. But look out and not buy an axe made only of iron because it is cheaper. It may be dearer in the end. It is evident his views must go through the country, and they will have their influence to bring into greater prominence, principles and practices, hitherto, too much neglected.

His views on Voice, Brombitis, Consumption, Spinal Weshess, Diversity of the Heaville.

His views on Voice, Brom-hitis, Consumption, Spinal Weakness, Dyspepsia, Patpitation of the Heart, &c., are well worthy of being tested by facts, and they will be. And one way to test them is to try his remedies. And it will be done. I am glad the response to my inquiry a few days since in your paper, shall Doct. B. come among u-? was "By all means," and, that full and attentive audiences have confirmed our judgement, and that more than one poor sufferer has thanked God for his visit. As a popular lecturer, I think Doct. B. might improve by using a little more elevated style of expression, and by avoiding some of his quaint remarks, although many of them give zest and sprightliness to his lectures, and enable him to and sprightiness to his fectures, and enable him to hold his audiences in perfect queeness for hours. His address to the ladies on the rumou influences of tight facing was truly eloquent and irresisible. No one can fairly decide upon his system who does not hear

Burlington, Vt. WRIGHT'S INDIAN VEGETABLE PILLS; OR

INDIAN PURGATIVE. THOUGH many medicines have been before the public for a much longer period than WRIGHT'S INDIAN VIGETABLE PILLS, yet mone stands now in maken negotie, or has more rapidly attained a firm hold upon popular estimation. The trious and that nace used them throughout the length and breadth of the Republic, all bear cheerful testimony to their thorough efficacy and mid operation when employed in the most discressing disorders "which flesh is heir to."

The theory of disease on which Whight's Indian Vegetable Pitts are founded, is this, v.z. that there is only one primary cause of all the disorders that afflict the human family, and that is corroun humors; or, in other word — Impurity of Blood. This primer ple is now so generally admined, that it may in fact e said to be sustained by an universality of opinion, the few dissenters constituting but a very feel le minority. It is uscless therefore to discuss the soundness of this theory in this place and connexton.

The ONE DISEASE PRINCIPLE Leng admitted, the mode of attack professed by all practitioners becomes the same—namely, purguition. But many of the so-called specifics may before the public, produce only one form of Purguion; they are either Suborific, Cuthartie, Distriction of Expectorant. Wright's Indian Vegetable Pills combine all these properties, and are therefore alculated to attack the elements of disease at all points, and by a harmonious and combined operation to expel it radically from the system. Therefore, almost one and all products as stomatons for eases that are remedial, they never inflict an injury you the system.

The perfect sofety of the medicine is another allimportant quality and one which has contributed more than any thing else to its extension and popularity.

Is a word, this medicine commends itself strongly

It a word, this medicine commends itself strongly to the pulsonage of the public, and its use bids fair to become before long, almost universal.

CAUTION.

The citizens of New England are respectfully informed that in consequence of the great popularity which Weight's Indian Vegetable Pills have earned by their astonishing goodness, a Gang of Commerciates are now industriously engaged in palming on the onsuspenting, a valueless and perhaps dangerous medicine, under the name of Indian Vegetable Pills.

This is to inform the public, that the genuine medicine has on the loxes.
